

Bio Robin Miller

Robin is a Senior Fellow and Director of Consultancy at Health Services Management Centre, the social care lead within the Chronic Disease Theme of the West Midlands Collaborations for Leadership in Applied Health Research & Care, and a Fellow of the School for Social Care Research. His research interests build on his practical experiences in the field as a social worker and social work manager, and centre on commissioning and management of integrated services, the role and impact of the voluntary and community sector, and person centred care. He leads on a variety of applied research projects with health, housing and social care organisations, with a particular focus on evaluating and learning from change initiatives. Robin is Co-Editor of the Journal of Integrated Care and an Associate Editor of the International Journal of Integrated Care. Outside of his University role, Robin is a non-executive director on the Board of Trident Social Investment Group and the chair of the board of trustees of Trident Reach, a major charity supporting the most vulnerable members of communities within the West Midlands.