

I am a chartered and state registered physiotherapist with thirty years clinical and managerial experience in the U.K., Canada and Ireland. I have a Masters degree in Health Services Management from Trinity College, Dublin

I am former President of the Irish Society of Chartered Physiotherapists and a current member of ER-WCPT - the European Region of the World Confederation for Physical Therapy - where my role is to promote the role of Physiotherapists/Physical Therapists as key health professionals within multi-disciplinary teams in both primary and secondary health care systems.

I have a strong interest in ensuring high standards of practice among health professionals and work for Coru, the Irish regulator for physiotherapists, and NMBI, the Irish regulator for nurses and midwives.

Outside of my physiotherapy role, I am a non-executive director on the Board of Peamount Healthcare, an independent voluntary organisation that provides a range of high quality health and social care services for people with neurological disability, intellectual disability and older people.
